HUMAN BONES CAUSE POLICE TO INVESTIGATE

Dr. Crocker Says Bones Are Skulls He Put There Some Time Ago

WIFE HAD REST HOME

Workmen Found Bones While Tearing Up Floor There Today

While at work yesterday afternoon remodeling a house on the old Verdugo home place on Verdugo road near the canyon, workmen found two skulls and several bones under the floor of a room at the rear of the house. The bones were brought into the police station and Dr. J. E. Eckles, city health officer examined them and said that the skulls were those of a man and a woman and the bones were the leg and part of the pelvis bones of a boy about five years old.

The Verdugo home is being remodeled for Mrs. Hart who recently purchased the place to operate a tea room. Workmen have been tearing out the partitions and floors of sections of the house and it was while taking up the floor of a rear room that the bones were found. According to George Males and B. Besonity, who found them, the bones were lying on the surface of the ground. The men dug around the earth near where the skulls were found and uncovered the bones that were identified as those of a small boy. An unsuccessful attempt was made to find a child's skull or the bones of a grown person.

Mrs. Hart stated that at times during the past six months the odor from the rear of the house near where the workmen made their gruesome find was almost unbearable and that several times neighbors and people passing the place noted it. She said that on several occasions she had turned the hose under the house in an attempt to put an end to the odors but could do nothing.

The place was formerly the property of Frank Verdugo who settled in that location and after whom the district was named. It is said that about 12 years ago, Dr. H. B. Crocker purchased the place and lived there until about a year ago. Recently the property was sold to Mrs. Hart. It is said that during Dr. Crocker's occupancy of the house his wife conducted a rest home.

When questioned by officers, Dr. Crocker stated he could account for the presence of the two skulls and said that they were formerly his property and that he had secured them while a student at medical college and said that they were skulls of people he had dissected. He stated that he had carried the skulls with him for about 20 years and when he built the new addition to his house in the Verdugo Canyon he had thrown the skulls under the house to get rid of them as his wife objected to having them in the house. He said the male skull was that of a man named Mike Donlin, who died in the county hospital at San Francisco and the female skull was that of a woman who had died at the poor farm in the same county. When asked regarding the bones of the child he stated that they were not, in his estimation, the bones of a child but had been buried under the house by dogs. He said that if they were really the bones of a child, he had no knowledge of them and that they must have been buried by some former owner of the place.

The Verdugo place has for several years been the subject of almost continual litigation and has figured in several notorious cases. A short time ago it is said that some one set fire to the garage and that an expensive machine had been totally destroyed. It is also said than an actor had at one time used the place as an alleged love nest. Chief of Police Martin has detailed Detective Scales and Officer Herda to work on the case and an attempt will be made to solve the mystery of the skulls and particularly the bones of the child as to why they were buried under the house. Further excavations under the house are to be made.

ELKS ANNUAL JINKS LAST NIGHT WAS GREAT SUCCESS

As one approached the Glendale Elks' lodge last night it looked as though all the automobiles in the county had been rounded up. For two blocks they were parked on both sides of Colorado and overflowed onto the cross streets.

Inside the club house, lodge hall and corridors were crowded with members to the number of 600 or more who applauded to the echo an excellent program provided for the annual "jinx night," the numbers including boxing rounds, singing, dancing, etc., refreshments being served throughout the evening in the banquet hall. The Elks' orchestra also contributed to the evening's entertainment and Ed J. Albright sang several numbers for which Herbert Henning furnished the accompaniment. Long past midnight the affair was in full swing with evidences that participants were having a royal good time.

Contemplated Strike Is Likened to Pulling Pillars From Temple

Likening the contemplated strike of railroad men to the pulling down of the pillars of the temple, Henry James in his comments tonight on the editorial page quotes a high union official as saying that it would make tramps of half the men and scabs of the rest.

James W. Foley in 'The Listening Post," tonight speaks of housecleaning. but applies it to the mental house to get rid of greed, hatred, littleness and bigotry to make room for ideas for, he says, "ideas multiplied by enthusiasm have ruled the world.

We commend this editorial page to your consideration. We do not expect you to agree with all the sentiments expressed. But on this page you will find the thought expressed by men of the type of Mr. Foley, Mr. James, Dr. Frank Crane and others. You will find editorials touching on live topics, able editorials that will cause you to think. You will find always some choice bit of verse and on another page you will find a poem from the pen of Mr. Foley.

Dr. Crane's article tonight on "The Court Jester," is well worth reading. He says that Charlie Chaplin ought to have a seat in the president's cabinet or at least in the senate. Aren't you curious to know why?

BABE RUTH IS FACING CRISIS OF HIS CAREER

Home-Run King Is Said To Be Ready for Tour of the United States

MAKES BIG "SALARY"

Believed That Judge Landis Will Suspend Him and Some Other Players

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Baseball magnates see a permanent traveling bambino.—an "outlawed" Babe Ruth, cast out of organized baseball and touring the United States next season with a team of his own. Judge Landis, monarch of baseball, is considering expelling Ruth from the major leagues for at least a season because he is playing exhibition games.

The Babe, will organize an outlaw team or even an outlaw league set up against the majors and barnstorm the country if he is expelled. This would pay Ruth more than if he continued under a salary with the Yankees.

At first, it was thought Ruth was bound to fail in a war with Landis because players who have previously defied the rules of organized baseball and set themselves up as outlaws have been unable to retain their prestige.

Ruth declared today he would continue to play baseball next year if Judge Landis barred him from the major leagues, and indicated that he would organize his own independent team and engage in exhibition games all over the country.

GLENDALE 'Y' WILL START FUND DRIVE

The Glendale Y. M. C. A. organization, of which Rex Kelley is secretary, is to participate in a financial canvas which will start next Sunday, for the purpose of raising Glendale's proportion of the county budget for 1922. Teams have been appointed which will be captained by C. W. Ingledue, W. B. Kirk, David Black, T. A. Wright, W. D. Root, F. R. Kitterman, C. D. Lusby, W. G. Boyd, T. W. Preston, H. L. Finley and George U. Moyse.

These teams will meet for luncheon at the Glendale Presbyterian church at one o'clock on Sunday and Dr. Remsden Du Bois Bird, president of Occidental College, will there make his first speech in Glendale. The thought he will advance is the value of Christian training to the growing boy.

Last year the total county budget was only $14,000. The county is divided into five districts and this sum took care of three of the districts of which Glendale is one. Next year the committee hopes to enlarge the field by developing the two other districts. One of these will cover the beach section. The budget will be increased to $20,000.

Last year practically one thousand boys were included in the Y. M. C. A. membership. By the enlargement of the field it will be possible to double the number of boys reached.

OPEN COVENANTS TO BE WORLD DESIRE SAYS COL. HOUSE

When Standing for Right, Have Nothing to Fear, Says Wilson Aide

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—In a statement to Collier's Weekly, to be published in the issue of October 22, Colonel E. M. House said:

"The man or nation standing for what is right and just has nothing to fear from publicity. I was a sympathetic observer of the handicaps under which the correspondents in Paris endeavored to keep the world informed of the negotiations incident to the framing of the treaty of Versailles. I believe I thoroughly appreciate advantages and disadvantages of open or closed sessions of international conferences. It is my opinion that the advantages to be found in open sessions far outweigh the disadvantages.

The diplomats of the world must begin to think in terms of open sessions. The people of the world are entitled to know the motives and the arguments that govern decisions in matters vital to their welfare.

"Private conference meetings may be expected and accepted as entirely proper under the plan of open sessions but when representatives of nations gather about the table in the future, to act officially in matters meaning the life and happiness of millions of men, women and children, these millions are entitled to representation through the press.

MEETING OF CABINET

Little Worry Throughout Country Over Effects of Rail Tieup

(By United Press)

Steps to avert the threatened railroad strike were taken today, Warren S. Stone, head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, announced in Cleveland and said that he and other union leaders had been summoned to Chicago to meet the Rail Labor board Thursday.

The "war council" of union leaders which was to have been held in Cleveland tomorrow has practically been called off.

President Harding placed the railroad crisis before his cabinet officers at their regular meeting in Washington. The course the government will follow was expected to be decided on at this meeting.

It was learned that certain congressmen are preparing to make speeches charging both rail executives and union heads have seized on the crisis to force the government to grant them concessions they had long sought. The government, it was made known will not be influenced by either side.

Advices to the United Press today from cities all over the country indicated there is no feeling of a serious situation.

People are not rushing to lay in stores of provisions.

UNITED STATES NOT SINCERE LAMENTS FRENCH DEPUTY

Says This Country Is After Jap Trade Markets in Far East

PARIS, Oct. 18.—The United States is suffering beneath the weight of her own gold, Deputy Margaine declared in the chamber of deputies today, launching a verbal attack on the limitation of araments. Margaine opened the debate on the arms meeting shortly after the chamber went into session. He declared the scope of the Washington conference was gradually shrinking.

"There is no question now of general disarmament," he cried. "The United States, suffocating beneath the weight of her gold, is seeking new markets and aiming at the Far East, where it is meeting Japanese competition and colliding with the Anglo-Japanese alliance."

He charged that this situation in the Far East was the real reason why America had called a conference to discuss "limitations of araments and pacific questions."

JOHNSON DEFENDS LANDIS IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Senator Dial of South Carolina has reopened his fight for the impeachment of Federal Judge K. M. Landis.

He submitted to the senate a copy of the resolution adopted by the American Bar association condemning Judge Landis for acting as baseball arbiter while holding office as a Federal judge. The resolution was sent to the judiciary committee.

Senators Johnson of California and Kenyon of Iowa defended Judge Landis.

"I want to express the opinion that the indignation of the bar association arises, not from the baseball employment of Judge Landis, but because of Judge Landis judicial acts." said Sen. Johnson. "I venture the assertion that if Judge Landis's court had been a refuge for privilege its commendation would have been certain and enthusiastic."

DRESSING TABLES GO WITH BRIDES

A bride and her dressing table are rarely parted—particularly if this most essential of chamber furnishings is wrought of classic walnut, in the soft in-the-wood stain so admirably adapted to the "wood."

Those who pass your door see your home—and judge it—through its draperied casements. Are your windows expressive of the taste that should prevail within? Seek that harmony which is expressive of homliness in your hangings.

Mattresses may be mattresses to the uninformed, but no one nowadays buys bedding with creature comfort, health and provident investment uppermost in mind, unless it be of purest cotton felt or the best of sanitary curled hair.

From an old New England homestead designs in candle-sticks so admirably adapted to our present-day homes by the addition of frosted light bulbs and quaint little parchment shields. They are shown in twins, of course, for mantle piece or dresser top.

The light that lies in exquisitely polished walnut or mahogany finds an answering gleam in burnished silver sparkling crystal. A charming console for the bare wall space or some neglected corner?

"Fireside comforts"—and all that the term suggests! Verily the greatest of these is the great, cushiony davenport in whose luxurious depths one may sink to blissful relaxation before the open fire.

Iridescent as a pigeon's breast, the luster of rare pottery. Little wonder that poets have sung of the romance of the Potter's Wheel!

Every woman seems color-glad this season. Happily, she may indulge her fancy without restraint in shade of lamp or candlestick, from handpainted parchment to artcraft silk.

Kato and Major General K. Tanaka, together with their staffs and assistants and a party of representatives of the foreign office. Mayor James Rolph Jr., Admiral A. S. Halstead and Major General William M. Wright will greet the delegation at the pier and escort them to a hotel where formal welcoming ceremonies will take place.

MAN 77 SAYS CAN WHIP MAN HIS AGE

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., Oct. 18.—Boy, page Jack Dempsey and hand him this:

"I can whip any man my age in the United States," emphatically declares "Colonel" H. C. Pyles, 77, a farmer residing near here. "The reason is because I have chewed tobacco since I was 'knee high to a duck.' I've never lost but one tooth, and you can tell the world that tobacco is the cause. The stronger the weed the better."

LITTLE RED HEN IS SOME COIN RAISER

TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 18.—Who said the "little red hen" was not worth its keep"?

When the Louisiana Purchase was made more than a century ago many citizens throughout the nation severely criticized the government for wasting money. Yet in 1920, according to figures compiled by the State Board of Agriculture, the Kansas hens alone produced and represented more than twice enough wealth to pay the original cost of this immense area of the United States.

That the hen of Kansas is a distinct asset is revealed by the fact that in 1820 the hen produced almost $21,000,000 worth of poultry products, which, if divided equally among the 152,000 farms of the state, would give each farm approximately $135.

MOONSHINER HAS ALL KINDS OF 'LUCK'

SISTERVILLE, W. Va., Oct. 18.—Prohibition officials, who raided a dwelling near here, found Jim Davis, the alleged proprietor, a one-armed man, his wife recovering from a serious illness, his wife's mother suffering from a broken hip and his only son slowly dying from tuberculosis. Moonshining, evidently, was a tedious job, for Davis used an ordinary tea kettle with a copper coil. Evidence that a considerable quantity had recently been made and disposed of was found. Officers said the still and thirty gallons of mash were confiscated.

BAY CITY OFFICIAL IS HUNTING MORE EVIDENCE HERE

Brady Loses Grip With Valuable Papers Upon Arriving in City

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—Here on a secret mission in connection with the prosecution of Roscoe Arbuckle, accused of manslaughter following the death of Virginia Rappe, Matthew Brady, district attorney of San Francisco, and Isadore Golden, his chief deputy, conferred with District Attorney Woolwine of Los Angeles shortly after noon today.

Although he refused to state the exact nature of his mission, Brady admitted that he expected to bring to light facts which would materially aid the prosecution's case against the comedian.

Brady said he would hold open conferences from his suite at the Alexander hotel, where anyone who has knowledge of the case may bring their information to him. Any such information would be held in strict confidence, he declared, saying that names of informants would be kept secret. He said there were many things yet to be investigated with regard to the case.

Asked regarding the morals of the movie colony here, Brady said:

"Remember that I am a guest here. I cannot make any statement along this line. I will say, however, that the district attorney here has been of great help, and has often assisted our prosecutions in the past."

Brady lost his traveling bag as he left the train.

"I hope it wasn't stolen, he said, "as it contains valuable papers. I suppose it became mixed up with some one else's bag."

HINDU PRINCESS HIDES FROM HUBBY

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—Sir Arthur George Scalisi Jervis, former chief surgeon of the Royal medical corps and now in retirement in Hollywood, today holds divorce papers as the culmination of a unique romance with a beautiful Hindu princess. Sir Arthur married the Hindu beauty in London in 1917, according to his divorce complaint. She was a member of the Vishnu sect, which does not believe in bloodshed, and urged her husband not to go to war. When he insisted, she disappeared.

Neither Scotland Yard nor an offer of five thousand pounds to lady Jervis if she would return—the offer made by Sir Arthur's aunt, Lady Adele Hollander—could bring her back. Sir Arthur, or Dr. Jervis, as he is known in Hollywood, obtained his freedom in Judge Summerfield's court on grounds of desertion.

KNICKERS WILL BE STYLE FOR LADIES

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Knickers for women and knee breeches for men. They are here and will continue to grow in favor, according to delegates to the convention of the United National Clothiers' association being held here. In every exhibit of clothing for men, the four-piece business suit is displayed, the coat, vest, knickers and stockings. They are shown in white duck, heavy crash, linen and woolens of conservative hues. These are to be worn with sport shoes. The coat is belted or loose, the pockets patch or inverted plaits.

An important feature of all garments for the coming season is the return to suspenders. Experts and men who create the styles say the belt was only a fad and has served its time. The men are tired of continually hitching up their trousers and suffering discomfort of having their digestive apparatus constantly under tight pressure.

ARBUCKLE CASE WITNESS IN JAIL

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18.—Jack Lawrence, wanted as a witness in the case of Roscoe Arbuckle, charged with prohibition law violation, was located in Oregon and returned here, where he is held in jail on a complaint issued by R. H. McCormack, special assistant United States Attorney General.

Lawrence in a statement to prohibition enforcement officers, declared he had delivered a part, at least, of the liquor consumed at Arbuckle's party at the St. Francis hotel during which Miss Virginia Rappe is alleged to have received injuries resulting in her death.

While under surveillance Lawrence disappeared. His disappearance led to a controversy between McCormack and E. Forrest Mitchell, Federal prohibition director, each declaring the other was responsible for Lawrence's safe keeping.

POOR ZEKE BIRD IS VICTIM OF CHANCE

GAINESVILLE, Ga., Oct. 18.—Mr. Zeke Bird is an unlucky bird, or at least on that point he will give one his word. He was walking along on a desolate way, on a road near Sewaunee, at the closing of day, when he waved down a car for a lift and a ride, and the car being roomy took Zekey inside. He exchanged how-de-dos with the car's occupants, excepting the sheriff, whom he hadn't glimpsed. But then Sheriff Crow turned partly about and Zeke made a move as if to get out.

"Hold on," said the sheriff, "stay in and ride."

"I was fixing the door," the traveler replied.

"Aren't you Zeke Bird?" the sheriff then queried.

"You said it," the other replied, sort of wearied.

"I've a warrant for you," the sheriff advised and Zeke settled back not a little surprised. Dawson County, he said was his living place, and he has a forgery charge to face.

Truths in Epigram

Not only is fortune herself blind, but she generally blinds those on whom she bestows her favors. — Cicero.

How swiftly passes the glory of the world. — Thomas A. Kempis.

God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble.—Old Testament.

LETTING THE CAT PLAY

The progress of business created demand for a piece of vacant land on New York's Fifth avenue. The lot was worth three-quarters of a million. This sum was offered for it. The owner declined to sell. The reason she gave was that her cat needed a place in which to play.

Probably the woman has a kind heart. It surely is nothing in disparagement of her that she is fond of her cat. Nevertheless her position, at first seemingly merely absurd, is an exhibition of selfishness.

That the cat should have a place in which to play actuated her in keeping improvements back. She did not need the money, and yet had she accepted it doubtless other quarters quite satisfactory to the distinguished cat might have been found. The woman was willing that a vacant lot be left to mar the avenue, that enterprises be impeded, that business men be inconvenienced, and values restricted, all on account of a cat.

Passing along the streets of any city one observes here and there, between well built and even imposing structures, empty lots that show no touch of improvement. They are waste places. There the weeds flourish, and the rubbish gathers.

In many instances the owner of the lot could sell it for many times the sum it cost him. He does not intend putting it to use. He has no need of money, save to add to an accumulation over which heirs soon will be contending. Yet he refuses to sell until he can get more money. He does not care whether or not his city looks kempt. He has no ambition to add to its prosperity. He holds to the lot, paying taxes with reluctance.

The lady with the cat had some excuse for her conduct, a poor and silly excuse, yet sufficient to account for her state of mind. In this she has an advantage of the owner who lags similarly, but has no beloved cat.

CARELESS ABOUT FACTS

A few days ago announcement was made of a sweeping reduction in freight rates. Nothing of the precise kind had been expected. Yet the statement seemed so circumstantial that it had to be accepted.

The report originated in San Francisco. Perhaps the agency that put it on the wire acted in good faith. If so, it acted without having made adequate examination into the facts.

Papers published at a distance lacked the opportunity for inquiry. Their course was to print the news, believing it to be reliable.

Immediately the railroad officials who had been credited with having sanctioned the reduction denied that this was their attitude or intention. They made plain that there had been no such reduction as declared in the press, and that under prevailing business conditions, the course would be imposible.

Probably there were many other papers than this to use the supposed reduction as a theme for comment. It happens that the comment was based on nothing but a fantasy that for the time and at a distance had an aspect of being real.

Whatever apology is due readers is due from the individual who placed spurious news on the wire, however innocently he may have done this.

HOLDING CHAOS BACK

The great problem of Europe is to hold back chaos. In this problem all the world must share. The civilization that does not rest on a foundation of justice and peace cannot last.

If the world has men wise enough to lead the way, these as yet have not found voice. There are plenty who perceive the evils and the perils. The greater among them seem to grope vainly in quest of remedy.

To cite a few of the difficulties, it may be said that Russia under the present malign leadership, is a thing apart from the international family. There is some belief that Germany may join Russia, but it does not appear that there could be any point of cohesion. They are as different metals, that may not be welded. Still, Russia, alone, hating real government, despising culture, starving intelligence, remains a peril.

France, while abating no jot of its indemnity demands, seeks to so restrict Germany commercially that the indemnity cannot be paid. Thus Germany faces ruin in either way. The League of Nations, it must be said regretfully, seems to have broken faith in regard to Silesia. The principle of self-determination has been set aside. Certain portions of that territory were given opportunity to declare their wishes in the matter. Overwhelmingly they elected to go to Germany. They have been allotted to Poland. In this circumstance there is the incentive for another war of magnitude. Germany without Silesia to draw upon for new material is left helpless to pay indemnity.

Far be it from any American paper to hold a brief for Germany. The crimes of that country have not been forgotten. The woe in which it caused the world to be enwrapped has not been forgiven. This does not justify the creation of conditions that embody, not remedial measures, but only show forth the spirit of vengeance. One may set aside all sympathy for Germany, or even gloat to see it poised on the brink of ruin. But one may not view the spectacle thinking only that Germany is about to get its deserts. The catastrophe would not be to Germany solely, but to all the peoples of the earth.

If nations would reason instead of plot; if they would apply the Golden rule instead of the law of complete and stupid selfishness, there would be no danger. This truth does not point to relief. There is not even slight prospect that the nations will turn from the evil courses that have led them to the stresses of this perilous hour.

TO BRIDGE A GAP

A committee of the Chicago council is now in this section, as one of them explains "hunting the gap between producer and consumer."

He adds, "We have found the gap, but do not know how to account for it ,and we believe that in that gap will be found the secret of the high cost of living."

Continuing, he expresses astonishment that out here prunes should be as low as six cents, and in Chicago as high as 75 cents, or that lemons rotted here unsalable at any price while in Chicago they were going to customers at 50 cents a dozen.

There is plenty of occasion for being displeased, but little occasions for being surprised. There are countless precedents for such unjust and artificial inequalities. The inequalities have not been confined to any one line of productivity.

Not long ago allegations were made freely that the packers of Chicago dominated the entire food market. The packers affirmed that this was not true, and that they would quit doing it. Since then there have been rumors that they had regretted quitting, and in some measure had backslidden. However, the facts ought not to be beyond the reach of proper authorities.

In the matter of leather, somewhat analogous, announcement appeared that there was to be a scarcity. In due season the scarcity was manifest as per schedule. While the scarcity was being planned, there was an abundance of hides, but the unfortunate owners could not get rid of them. There was no market. This little circumstance, contributing importantly to the economic situation, never has been fully explained save that enterprising gentlemen desired a scarcity of leather, and procured it.

While in a sense, a commodity is worth whatever consumers can be induced to pay for it, the six-cent prune is not, by the mere experience of a ride to Chicago, elevated to a worth of 75 cents. The second price would be exorbitant even though the first price had been fair, which at 6 cents it was not.

A fact is not to be dodged merely because it is disagreeable. The fact is that human greed is the responsible equation.

THE COURT JESTER

By Dr. Frank Crane.

There is nothing new under the sun.

In these days of democracy we still have our heroes, as in the time of King Arthur, though we are apt to kick them out before they have warmed the throne with their noble posterior.

Charlie Chaplin is the modern instance of a long line of Court Jesters.

He is the King's Fool.

For the modern King is The People.

Charlie makes The People laugh when he waddles upon the screen, just as the jester at the court of Old King Cole made all the countries guffaw and all the ladies snicker when he scampered in with his bladders rattling with dried peas and crouched beside the monarch's throne.

Francis the First of France had his Triboulet.

Henry the Third his Chicot.

And the well known Alas P. Yorick amused the King of Denmark and excited his neurasthenic heir to philosophic reflection.

All the kings of the good old days had each his fool.

He had his uses. He made the monarch laugh, and the king business has always been a lonesome one and sad.

He was the only one in court who was allowed to tell the truth.

He invented freedom of speech.

He was the only one His Royal Highness was permitted to kick with his own boot. Hired men had to chastise the others.

He spoke to the king about his soul, his wife and his enemies, which no one else was allowed to mention, by way of criticism.

And he was the sole member of the royal entourage who gave the king honest and disinterested advice.

There have been many kinds of kings, but only one kind of fool.

For His Majesty The People roars with delight today when Charlie swats a lady in the face with a pie or knocks off a bishop's hat or hits some one on the head with a maul, precisely as all fools in all times have tumbled and flopped and buffeted.

Let us not envy him his fame. God knows we are busy enough making dreadnoughts, Big Berthas and poison gases for the wholesale manufacture of human misery, why not grant his meed of praise to the clown who can take a wrinkle from between our eyes and lighten a bit the load of existence that presses down our souls.

Charlie ought to have a seat in the President's cabinet. At least in the senate.

Somebody ought to be on hand there, as the King's Jester, to puncture the sober nonsense that is so often deliberated.

THE LISTENING POST

Someone was cleaning house.
A man or woman, it matters not who.
So long as the house cleaning was being done.
For the purpose of this allegory, it was anybody you please.

The housecleaning was being well done.
Rugs were beaten.
Or cleaned with a vacuum cleaner.
The modern way.
Once they were hung upon a line or laid upon the grass and beaten with sticks.

Great clouds of dust arose.
The fabric was smashed.
And the work perhaps illy done.
And then somebody came along with a suction pump in a box and revolutionized the rug cleaning business.

Another of the benefits conferred upon humanity by electricity.
With which we warm the back, read the paper, toast the bread, make the coffee, clean the rugs, wash the clothes and do a dozen and one things that formerly were laboriously done by hand.

But to get back to the housecleaning.
Pictures were taken down from the wall.
Baseboards were scrubbed.
Cobwebs and dust were wiped away.
Floors were brightened and oiled.
Until the whole house looked spick and span and new.
And it smelled clean and inviting.

And somebody observed the housecleaning and asked why.
And the Housecleaner replied that visitors were expected.
And it was necessary to have the house clean that they might be well received.

It would be discourteous and thoughtless and inconsiderate to expect visitors to stop over in a house that was not clean and inviting.
So the housecleaning was being done.
And everything made inviting.

It is the part of courtesy of course to receive visitors well.
Give them the best.
With cheer and hospitality and sincerity.
Otherwise they should not be invited.

And there are visitors of all sorts.
There are personal and human visitors who have breath and being.
And there are visitors whose shapes are intangible and immaterial but who are no less important.
Ideas.

Ideas multiplied by enthusiasms have ruled the world.
Neither is sufficient without the other.
A man had an idea one time that he could communicate across the ocean as readily as you can shout across the back lot to your neighbor.

So out of that idea multiplied by the enthusiasm of the man and his fellows, we got the undersea cable.
By which communication over thousands of miles is instantaneous.
And which was perhaps the marvel of the century up to the time of the wireless.

And it was an original idea.
Which the wireless was an adaptation.
Merely making use of invisible wires for the transmission of sound.
A kind of sympathetic disturbance of the air or ether or whatever it is.

So the visitors of the Idea family are important.
And one time a man was hoping some visitors of that family might come.
And he began to clean house.
His mental house.

He dusted and scrubbed and cleaned and brightened.
He wiped away the cobwebs.
Ran the vacuum cleaner about.
Got rid of greed and hatred and littleness and bigotry.
And all of the dirt that sometimes fouls the mental house.

He did a thorough job.
For he wanted to entertain his visitors well.
And at last he had his mental house clean.
And was surprised to find the amount of dirt that had accumulated.
Just from the day-to-day carelessness.

And when the Ideas came they were joyous to find so clean a house.
And they stayed and repaid the man well for his job of housecleaning.
And he profited much by their visit.

And often he would sit for a long time by himself and struggle with himself.
And friends would ask him what he was doing.
And he would tell them he was cleaning house.
Cleaning his mental house.

SONGS OF THE POETS

"My Heart is a Lute"—By Anne Barnard (1750-1825)

Alas, that my heart is a lute
Whereon you have learned to play!
For a many years it was mute,
Until one summer's day
You took it, and touched it, and made it thrill,
And it thrills and throbs, and quivers still.

I had known you, dear, so long
Yet my heart did not tell me why
It should burst one morn into song,
And wake to new life with a cry,
Like a babe that sees the light of the sun,
And for whom this great world is just begun.

Your lute is enshrined, cased in,
Kept close with love's magic key,
So no hand but yours can win
And wake it to ministrelsy;
Yet leave it not silent too long, nor alone,
Lest the strings should break, and the music be done.

OBSERVED AT A GLANCE

By HENRY JAMES

Diplomatists discuss "The Open Door," but police magistrates are using it. The door remains open only long enough to let the reckless speeder into jail.

Los Angeles papers now display a "box score" showing championship games between police and criminals. The latter make the most hits.

The small boy is never more of a terror than when he makes himself a chariot of soapbox mounted on skate rollers, and sets out to devastate the peace.

They are talking of a law in New York to forbid laughing at prohibition. Enforcement of prohibition would be a better cure for obnoxious mirth.

After Babe Ruth's arm has mended certain sport writers would do well to keep out of its way.

Columbus is accused of making a mistake in not discovering this coast. Not so. Had the Pacific side been found first, much of what is New England would be a howling wilderness yet.

Japanese are bringing in whisky disguised as fish. Perhaps they could get by if they called the stuff fish bait.

Another interesting phase of a world championship series is the chance it gives each paper reporting it to boast of having beaten every rival.

The bank robber who escaped from the county jail needn't have taken the trouble. When he was recaptured and sent to San Quentin, the kind people up there gave him a parole.

Russian reds have expelled a number of members charged with being religious. "Pure religion and undefiled" would be embarrassing to any communist gathering.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

INDIVIDUAL JUDGMENT

[Boston Transcript]

Democratic senators at their conference today very wisely decided that their course upon the pending treaties of peace with Germany, Hungary and Austria was not properly a matter for caucus governance and that therefore every senator must be left entirely free to exercise his own judgment.

This is in line with the example set by the republican senate under the leadership of Senator Lodge, who never has called a caucus on the treaty of Versailles. Not only were the republican senators free to vote according to the dictates of their own conscience but they exercised that freedom by dividing into three groups, mild reservationists, strong reservationists and "irreconcilables." It was a fine and fruitful demonstration of patriotic independence by the senate in the exercise of its share in the treaty making power.

The democratic minority at that time was less independent in its course and the party paid the penalty at the polls last November. Today's decision by the minority not to draw the party line in dealing with treaties is the republican way and the better way. Both parties should so shape their course in their votes upon foreign affairs.

AN INSULT TO EDUCATION

[Waterbury American]

We do not wonder that George Haven Putnam, the publisher, is protesting that he and his fellow publishers do not wish to be protected by an import duty on foreign books. Such a duty is an imputation on the intellectual character of the American people. It is ostensibly aimed at wealthy book collectors, but, like many such taxes, it hits the average person, putting out of their reach books which they ought to have at a reasonable price. We doubt if an administration dominated by Woodrow Wilson would stoop to this tax.

Comment on the News

By HENRY JAMES

Such a strike as contemplated by railroad labor organizations seems much akin to the pulling down of the pillars of the temple. Samson perished in the ruin he wrought. He had felt himself wronged, and he was getting even. A few days ago when the strike was a proposal, not yet having taken on the aspect of certainty, a high union official expressed his belief that there would be no strike. He could not think that the giant, even in wrath, would topple the pillars. Such a course, he declared, would make tramps of half the men and scabs of the rest. Just now the country is troubled at unemployment of millions who are willing to work. Ways were being devised to relieve these of idleness. There were prospects of considerable success. Into this situation the strikers propose to pour hundreds of thousands of idle men. Such a host would suffer even were there not already millions in distress. They will join this army. By the very fact of being jobless, they will render more helpless the earlier unfortunates seeking the chance to earn bread. It does not seem right, nor wise; it does not seem possible. But the hands of the giant press the pillars of the temple.

A Mrs. Conley of San Diego shot her husband the other day. The coroner's jury appeared to think she had done very well. Nevertheless she is likely to have to answer to a formal charge. There have been many instances of wife murder. Sometimes the deed has been the culmination of a long series of threats. The wife has held her faith in the better nature of the husband, and been killed as a reward. This sort of tragedy has appeared so often, that when a man begins to threaten to slay, the woman who deprives him of the chance by getting the drop first, makes a strong bid on public sympathy.

Pasadena schools can boast, and do boast modestly. A diligent truant officer has failed to find in the district a single child coming under the rating of incorrigible. However, there are fewer incorrigible children in every district than records are likely to show. There is a grave chance that the youngster so listed is misunderstood, mistreated, and not to blame for his conduct.

Americans who enlisted with the Spanish forces are said to be exceedingly anxious to come home. They were not fighting for principle, which is the best inspiration for a good fighter, but because no other job was handy. Many of them are now out of the service, and stranded. Spain ought to pay their fares across.

Visitors to New York city long ago learned that civility was rare on the part of the police there and unknown to street car employes. It will cheer them to learn that a New York policeman noted for his brutality has received a sentence to the penitentiary. They were not aware that such a thing could happen. Somebody may get a New York car conductor yet.

Disappearance of a young woman always causes deep anxiety, and generally with good reason. Many such disappearances have occurred in this state in recent months, some of them never having been explained. Young women are rash when they brave the highways unprotected.

San Francisco has experienced a mail robbery of exciting size. It seems that a bandit desiring to possess himself of sacks of valuable stuff has only to mention the matter to the individual in charge, perhaps displaying a gun for emphasis. It makes no difference whether this is at a cross roads or in the midst of urban traffic. The postal employe is quite human in his desire to save his skin.

Peace officers in this end of the state have expressed no pleasure over the granting of parole to one Sharkey, not only a robber, but a bad man on general principles. They had gone to the trouble to catch him. This was no easy task. They had succeeded in convicting him. Not a simple matter when the tactics of criminal lawyers are considered. Then they had to catch him again when he rolled to freedom in a garbage can. At last, when they thought they knew where the fellow was, the parole board generously opened the door to him.

It is important to catch the bootlegger. It also is important to catch the individual, police or otherwise, who robs the original bootlegger and goes into the business himself. There has been many a cellar stocked with liquor seized in bogus raids.

MISS IDA MIX IS BRIDE FRANK MATLOCK

The home of Mrs. S. J. Sarrow, 210 West Doran street, was the scene of a quiet but pretty home wedding, October 4, when her niece, Miss Ida Mix, of Colorado, became the bride of Frank Matlock.

It was the culmination of a war romance for Mr. and Mrs. Matlock met for the first time while he was in service in San Diego when she was the guest of her cousin, Mrs. John E. Osborne.

The mother of the bride presented them with an automobile in which they left for their moneymoon, which will eventually take them to San Diego. There they will take charge of a beautiful estate called Rose Way which Mrs. Mix has purchased and of which she is not yet ready to take possession.

Rev. C. M. Calderwood officiated at the marriage which was witnessed by quite a company of friends and relatives. Little C. G. Sarrow and Alice Sarrow attended the bride and bridegroom and Virginia Sarrow bore the ring which was presented on a large pink rose.

The bridegroom is a southerner, has been employed in Idaho since he received his discharge from the service.

PORTER SAYS HOMES MADE BY FURNITURE

For the past six years Glenn Porter, corner Orange street and Broadway, has been selling furniture in Glendale. He has now one of the most complete lines of furniture for all parts of the home to be found in this city.

"To follow the idea and aims of 'better homes' week the home owner will naturally start with the furniture, and it is fitting that he should, for no matter how modern the home is along other lines if its furniture dates back to the Ark, it cannot be termed up-to-the-minute, as they say," said Mr. Porter when interviewed this morning. "While we carry used furniture it must not be forgotten that we also carry a complete line of strictly modern house furnishings, this being of such a character as would be 'right at home' in the lowly cottage or the most expensive residence. This 'better homes' week will doubtless do much toward making the homes of Southern California better and more cheerful places in which to live."

Mr. Porter's establishment carries wood and gas stoves, gas heaters, linoleum, refrigerators, mattresses, kitchen ware, both china and granite, and in fact, everything that is needed in the modern home.

EVERY HOME SHOULD HAVE GOOD MUSIC

"Every home should have its music."

This is a fact that the proprietor of the Glendale Music company, 109 North Brand boulevard, well knows, and which the residents of Glendale are rapidly learning. There is nothing that takes the place of music in the home, and the dwelling that has had its musical instrument for any length of time would seem a spiritless abode were the musical part of the establishment to be suddenly removed.

This firm is specializing on the Chickering piano with the Ampico, although other pianos are always carried in stock. Both grands and uprights are on display.

This company handles the Victrola exclusively. There is constantly on display all sizes. and finishes in this phonograph, these being differently priced. All of these instruments are sold on very easy terms. A complete line of string instruments is also carried, as is a full assortment of records, sheet music, etc. A strictly modern talking machine and piano service department is maintained by this establishment.

The Salmacia Bros., proprietors of this establishment, have been in business in Glendale for five years. They now employ fifteen people and claim to be the largest out-of-Los Angeles music store in Southern California. It maintains a branch store in Burbank.

Borden is at liberty on bond furnished by Eva Tanguay, also a vaudeville celebrity.

HOW TO HELP BOYS GO STRAIGHT TOLD BY CHIEF MARTIN

Has Suggestions to Eleminate Crime Among Younger Class

Speaking of the recent investigation of the activities of an alleged juvenile theft ring in Glendale, Chief of Police Martin suggested a means ofcurbing the tendencies of the boys to go wrong. Chief Martin said:

"The average boy is not bad at heart, he is bad because temptation is thrown in his path and he has not sufficient experience to combat it. Most boys go wrong because they are allowed to run around on the streets and associatee with older people. If these boys had some place to spend their evenings beside on the street juvenile crime in Glendale would be reduced to a minimum.

"True the boys can stay at home and home is the proper place for them, ubt the average boy wants to associate with other boys in the evening and it is right that he be allowed to associate with them for a while each evening. The average boy can amuse himself in the house for a while but after a while he craves action and an outlet for his spirits. If a boy is allowed to go out for a while in the evening one or two nights a week he is a better boy for it, providing he is in good company while he is out. There are no better sources for the boy to secupre the proper accosiates than at the Y. M. C. A. and in the Boy Scouts.

"What is really needed in Glendale is a Y. M. C. A. and increased Scout activities. When a boy joins the Scouts he takes an oath that if lived up to will make a better boy of him and will prevent his giving way to temptations that face the average boy. As a Scout the boy finds activities that appeal to him and will keep him interested. He is given a chance to indulge in clean outdoor sports that tend to build up the body and at the same time he is subject to influence that can do nothing but improve his mind and morals.

"In the Y. M. C. A. the boy is given the advantage of indulging in athletics, and sports under the direction of men who have made a study of sports and are equipped to teach the younger generation, and at the same time imbue in them the spirit of honesty and manliness. These two organizations do more to improve the morals and behavior of the average boy than all of the juvenile halls and police courts in the country. I say increase the activity of the local Boy Scouts and make every effort to secure a Y. M. C. A. for Glendale and the problem of juvenile crime will have been solved."

MERITS OF COLUBMIA TOLD BY KENNEY

"We handle the Columbia phonograph exclusively because we believe it is the finest talking machine on the market today. Of course, others claim the same thing, but we feel that we can prove this to the most skeptical." So spake Mr. Kenny of the Kenny Music Shop. 203 North Brand boulevard.

This company carries Columbias of every size, style and price, from $30 up to $2,100. It claims to be the only music company in Glendale that has lowered the prices on its instruments. Every instrument handled by this company is sold on the easiest kind of terms, so that there is really no excuse for anyone not having music in the home.

In this establishment there are two sound-proof hearing rooms for the playing of the records. A very complete line of records is kept in stock constantly. Another feature of this establishment is that record books in all nationalities are maintained, enabling all to select the records desired.

MODERN FURNITURE IS NOW DEMANDED

The very latest, down-to-the-minute furniture for the home is carried at the Trice Furniture company, 118 West Broadway.

"The furniture that goes into a home either brings that home up to date or it carries it back for a space of years. The home owner of today is demanding strictly modern furniture for his or her dwelling. That's why we are carrying nothing but furniture that is of the very newest types and fiinishes. We are prepared to equip the entire home from cellar to attic."

This firm is making a specialty of rugs. Constantly shipments of rugs are being received, each of these, of course. making the stock more complete. Before the manager of this establishment is satisfied he expects to have the most complete stock of rugs of any suburban store in Southern California, which is saying a great deal.

The Buck line of gas ranges is also carried by this establishment, as are also several kinds of gas heaters, all of which would assist in bringing any home into the "modern" class. A very beautiful line of special grass furniture is kept in stock by the Trice company. The furniture is manufactured in China.

PAINT IS ELEMENT FOR EVERY HOME

"The unpainted home is not the modern home," said Mr. Allison of the L. H. Allison Paint company, 105 West Broadway. "Just as the clothes make the man so the paint makes the house. The painted barn is more attractive than the unpainted house. Paint is one way of cutting down the expense of home owning, for the unpainted home deteriorates far more quickly than does the painted ones—everyone knows this. So why not 'paint up.' Let better homes week be a brightening up week."

This firm carries a complete line of Fuller, Bohan Co., Hughes and Peacock paints. and everything in varnishes, enamels, stains, etc. All kinds of brushes necessary in painting the home are sold here. As are also, step ladders, wall paper, which this firm sells and hangs. Then there is floor paints and enamels, etc.

JURY ACQUITS

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—After deliberating but 10 minutes a jury in Judge Munroe's court today found W. F. Crawford, city engineer of Venice, not guilty of misconduct in office as charged in recent accusations by the grand jury.

MUSIC IN HOMES IS VERY ESSENTIAL

"Not only does the home owner realize the need of music in the home today, but he is gradually awakening to the fact that there is a crying need for better music—that is, a better class of instruments with which to reproduce the excellent records of various kinds that are being made, as well as for personal manipulation," said Mr. Barnes of the Barnes-Shuck Music company, 211 North Brand boulevard. "And in anticipation for this call for better instruments we have laid in an excellent assortment of pianos, phonographs, etc., that is sure to meet the requirements of those who want the very best obtainable along the musical line."

This firm carries the Knabe, Haines Bros. and the artistic Franklin pianos. It has also taken a half-car of the Behr Bros. grand pianos, which is the smallest grand piano made, fitting in any little nook that would accommodate the average upright. This firm is anticipating a great fall and holiday trade, and for this it has purchased heavily.

This company reports a brisk phonograph trade in the Pathe Actuelle, the new phonograph without a reproducer, tone arm or horn. It is electrically operated and plays all records perfectly. A complete line of records, player rolls and sheet music is also carred in stock.

This company's slogan is "Every musical want supplied."

Sixty-three pounds of muscle, jaw and teeth! That ought to be warning enough to keep away from the cellar of Wesley Johnson of Medford, Mass., which is constantly guarded by the healthy-looking fellow in the above photograph, "Bay State Tantalizer." AMERICAN GIRL BOUND FOR CHINA

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 18.—Mrs. Chenkai Huang, formerly Miss Lillian Stillwell of Ithaca, N. Y., and her wealthy Chinese husband left on board the steamship Wanatchee at 11 a. m. today for China, where the white wife declares she will soon master the language and customs of her husband's people.

Mr. and Mrs. Huang were married in Newark, N. J., August 6, after their acquaintance at Cornell University, where they were both students during the past year.

CHILD MORTALITY LESS LAST MONTH

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Oct. 17.—Infant mortality was lower than ever before during September of this year, according to statistics compiled by L. E. Ross, statistician of the state board of health. During the month the rate for infant mortality was 61.1 per thousand, according to Ross. The lowest previous record was in September, 1920 when the average was 61.6 per thousand. California's infant mortality rate is the lowest of any state in the Union, says Ross. The average infant mortality rate is above 75 per thousand. Many states have a rate of 100 per thousand.

PERFECT WAY PAIR TO ANSWER CHARGE

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18.—An indictment containing four charges against W. E. Riker and wife, Lucille, self-styled "immortals" of the "Perfect Christian Divine Way" cult, was to be served on the accused pair today. They are charged with conspiracy against public morals; conspiracy to obtain money unlawfully; grand larceny and embezzlement.

The charges followed a long investigation in which authorities say they learned that Riker and his wife persuaded members of the cult to turn over to them all their property and then work for "the cult" without pay other than a mere living. A branch of the cult is said to be flourishing in Los Angeles.

The Barton Bedtime Stories

COULD NIBBLE MAKE TRAILER HELP HIM?

By JOHN BARTON

(Copyright, 1921, by The Associated Newspapers.)

"Who? Where?" repeated Trailer the Hound, shaking his long ears to get the crinkles out of them—it isn't comfortable to slide them through a collar as tight as his was. Now it was done he meant to have a fine time—fun enough to pay for the licking his master, Tommy Peele's cousin Sandy, would surely give him for doing it. Too late to be sorry. He couldn't possibly get it back on again. "Who are we chasing, Bunny? Tworow-row!" He frisked like a puppy at the idea of hunting all on his own without any one to boss him.

"Fox!" Nibble Rabbit merely snapped one word over his shoulder. Off he ran, trying to keep too far ahead of the old dog to answer any more questions. You know for why. He had his reasons for not answering them. But Trailer didn't ask any. "Fox!" he yowled delightfully. "Big hunting. Aour-rgh! What fun!" Then he went on singing his song Nibble Rabbit had begun.

Leap the fence, plough through the mire,
At a steady gallop that's slow to tire
Follow the game of the hound's desire.

"I say, Nibble! Where's Watch?" He liked to have Tommy Peele's old dog along with him, even if Watch wasn't a hound. He knew Trailer's song and it sounds better with more than one dog singing it.

"Gone," answered Nibble, as briefly as before. And so he was. That's why Nibble hadn't been able to find him. But Trailer thought he meant Watch was hunting ahead of him.

He listened. Not a sound did he hear. "Hm. Maybe he's picking out the trails to find the warmest one," said he to himself. "I'd better not start the game running before I catch up with him." So he dropped his nose and ran on with just a little whimper of excitement as he passed by other tracks that smelled interesting. Suddenly he heard a high, thin wail. "Coon!" he cried. "What do you say? Let's chase him!"

"You'll have to fight the foxes first" answered Nibble. "They're after him, too." Wasn't he clever? Not one word did he say about it's being his friend, Tad. Not one word about wanting Trailer to rescue him. Because Trailer and Tad weren't the best of friends. But——

"Foxes!" gasped the hound, stopping dead in his tracks, "Foxes! How many are there? A whole pack of them?"

DECLARE MARRIAGE PROPOSALS MADE BY MRS. SOUTHARD

Advanced Money to One aMn to Get Divorce From Wife, Charge

TWIN FALLS, Idaho, Oct. 18.—That Mrs. Lyda Southard, alleged husband poisoner, made proposals of marriage to men other than the ones she married, and, in fact, advanced one of them $350 in order that he might get a divorce from his wife, was the contention of the prosecution today. Both men were well insured, according to District Attorney Frank L. Stephan.

The testimony of C. D. King, an elderly bachelor, who lived on a ranch across the road from Mrs. Southard and her first husband, R. C. Dooley, will be heard today.

Mrs. Southard, according to King, came to him shortly after the death of Dooley and his brother, Edward Dooley, with a proposition of marriage telling him that "he needed a wife and she needed a home."

She also offered to aid him financially by making improvements on his farm with the $4,500 insurance and the money she got from the estate of the two Dooleys.

King said that she knew he was carrying a good sum of insurance because it happened that the application for the insurance had been written some time before on the porch of the Dooley home, in Mrs. Southard's presence.

MABEL HOLT EDITOR HOSPITAL PAPER

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—A newspaper written, edited and printed by a woman is the latest addition to Los Angeles journalism. The new publication is a one-page journal put out by Miss Mabel Holt, secretary to Norman R. Martin, superintendent of the Los Angeles County Hospital, for distribution among the hospital attaches.

One thousand copies of the little newspaper are run off on a mimeograph on the first day of each month by Miss Holt. A copy is delivered to every regular employe of the hospital. The editor has tentatively named the monthly "The News Bulletin."

Issuance of the Bulletin was undertaken by Miss Holt in an effort to provide the county employes with full facts as to the activities of the mammoth hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Schubert of Catalina, spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Henderson of 401 W. California avenue. Mr. Schubert is editor of the "Press" at Catalina.

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

Eat Less Meat if You Feel Backachy or Have Bladder Trouble

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

When Mixed With Sulphur It Brings Back Its Beautiful Luster at Once

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

DAWES MAKES ALL DEPARTMENTS CUT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Director of the Budget Dawes, of "Hell-and-Maria" fame, is still trying to plug up the gaps through which the taxpayers' money leaks unnecessarily. His latest move puts "Uncle Sam" in the trucking business, ordering all government departments to have any necessary hauling done by government trucks, regardless of the rule of absolute fixed assignments of motor vehicles to certain departments.

It has been the general practice among the various departments to receive outside bids for hauling if the available motor equipment assigned to the specific department is in use, regardless of the fact that another department's motor vehicles were idle. The recent order of General Dawes is expected to eliminate this waste.

The order followed a recent incident wherein a Government department here advertised for bids to move one of its bureaus when there was available equipment in other departments to carry out this service. The bids were recalled and the move carried out by calling in assistance from other departments whose assigned motor transportation was idle. Approximately $3,000 was saved the general Government in this instance.

MIRRORS SOLVE MANY PROBLEMS

If in doubt, use a mirror! That is, speaking of the business of decorating the home—not of the condition of one's back hair.

Mirrors have been found to be so tremendously effective as a means of giving the illusion of greater size to a small room and or reflecting, and thus doubling the effect of a spot of particular beauty, that mirrors of many sizes, shapes and descriptions are putting in welcome appearance in the shops and—better still—in the most winning homes.

Summer in spirit but all year round in point of serviceability, is the vogue of blithe wicker!

WALNUT WAS USED IN 16th CENTURY

In the sixteenth century the principal woods used in furniture were walnut, beech and oak. The best authority tells us that mahogany was introduced in the eighteenth century about 1710, because of the liability of the other woods to decay by being bored by small worms.

The principal woods used in making furniture today are oak, mahogany, walnut, birch, maple, elm and ash.

There are many varieties of mahogany and the natural characteristics indicate the country from which it comes. Some mahogany is stronger than others and this variety would be used, for instance, in that part of the chair that would necessitate the greatest need of strength, as the legs. Other varieties can be used for the backs and seats of the chairs.

It is said that fully 65 per cent of all the furniture shown at the great furniture exposition city of the world is in this wood, in its various finishes, notwithstanding the fact that the cost is gradually on the increase.

Birch is a hard, white, close grained wood and is remarkably suited to take a mahogany finish, and when so finished is sometimes hard to distinguish from mahogany. It is made up into the less expensive furniture.

who's your printer?

—a question you have probably never given much thought. Most buyers of printing think that as long as type gets on paper it will answer their needs.

This is not a fact. A printer must interpret the purpose the advertiser has in mind and must select type to suit each particular job.

Our Job Printing Department is under the management of capable craftsmen, who understand the correct uses of type and can "put over big" any class of printing which you may have.

England Delves Into Past of Charlie Chaplin, Native Son

LONDON, Oct. 17.—Delving into the ancient history of one Charles Chaplin, who is by way of being well and favorably known to a select handful of intellectuals throughout the world, has become almost a "cult" in England.

It only remains for some student of origins to discover a Bacon in the Chaplin family closet to make Charles as famous as the immortal William, whose family seat was up Stratford way.

Diligent students have discovered that Charlie really did go to school for quite a while in one school, in Kennington. It's that school he came here to visit among other things.

Earlier excavations indicated that if Mr. Chaplin told the eager press of America before leaving the United States that he was going to revisit his childhood school he must have a considerable tour in mind. There are lamentable facts in the biographies of all truly great men. The immortal William had something to do with breweries, for instance. And it was pretty definitely proved by London research that the Immortal Charles was noted for little he had to do with schools.

That is to say, he had a wide and Catholic acquaintance with them. But almost invariably the acquaintance was fleeting and casual.

In these dim days—in the pre-movie age—in England, at least, schooling was not compulsory. There was no law about going on learning, at a desk, until you're fourteen, or so. There were no truant officers. Otherwise several would have been busy on Charles trail.

He came from an artist's family of course, and was on the boards himself, and constantly moving, at an early age. But the biographical fact remains that the young man didn't hanker much after regular hours under schoolmasters.

Excepting this school up in Kennington. He did stop there quite a while. The research parties are a trifle vague about it, but he was certainly there long enough to get the hearmaster's picture in the papers, in a scholar's cap and flowing mutton-chop whiskers.

On the banks of the Avon they will prove to you that a whole lot is known about the Immortal Bard. He was a somebody even before he started writing pieces for the stage. His father was at one time Mayor of Stratford.

The Chaplin biographers can do better than that. They have found photographs of Charles Chaplin, pere, in a white lawn tie and plug hat, a handsome smiling chap, and by the looks of him 50 per cent bigger than the present generation. Also Spencer Chaplin, grandfather, a handsome man likewise, with close cropped grey mustache.

Church Bells Chime.

George Jackley, a comedian, boyhood chum, and something like the Immortal in appearance, comes into the picture, getting his own in the papers.

The Daily News, proving definitely that a Chaplin family existed in London, prints a facsimile of a sheet of music, "'As the Church Bell Chime,' written by Norton Atkins, sung by Charles Chaplin." The elder, that is.

Charles started, formally, as the page boy in the staging of "Sherlock Holmes" at the Lyceum. But one learned analyst avers that he got his real training in comedy and invented His eccentric steps while playing the best "cat" ever seen in the history of London pantomimes.

OXNARD CHAMBER HOST SECRETARIES

Secretary Rhoades and Assistant Secretary Sanders of the chamber of commerce returned Sunday evening from a trip to Oxnard, where secretaries of various chambers of Southern California gathered in convention Saturday. They report a interesting and instructive trip.

Early Saturday the secretaries were taken through the mammoth plant of the American Sugar Beet company. They were taken through the Oxnard Citrus Packing company plant and later through the Los Feliz Sugar Refining plant.

At noon the secretaries gathered beneath four large trees where an elaborate barbecue, provided by the American Sugar Beet company, was served. Numerous addresses were given, the principal one being by E. C. Hamilton, general manager of the Los Feliz Sugar Refining company, who talked on "The Home Consumption of Beet Sugar."

Assistant Secretary Sanders delivered an address on "How to Get Members for the Chamber of Commerce." Mr. Sanders complimented the Glendale daily papers very highly, saying that if it had not been for the support given by the newspapers the recent drive for new members could not have been carried out successfully. During the afternoon a musical program was rendered by Misses Alberta and Lorene Davis, trumpet, mellophone, Fluegel horn and Euphonium soloists.

LOT BUYERS BEGIN ACTIVITIES HERE

Lot buyers have struck town and have actually settled down to buying Glendale real estate, according to the Smith-Babcock-Hamilton Real Estate company of 204 East Broadway. No section of the city is receiving more than its share of this lot buying activity, and no particular price of lots is in demand.

With hardly an exception, those who are buying lots are doing so with the intention of building. Many are coming from different sections of Southern California, while others are coming direct from the East.

IRISH CIVIL WAR IS FEARED IN LATEST BELFAST MOVE

BELFAST, Oct. 18.—The Ulster volunteers are to be armed and mobilized. This drastic step which threatened to have such serious consequences in 1914 and which constitutes an open challenge to Sinn Feinf, has been decided upon by the Belfast government, it was announced today because of the British failure to prevent Irish republican troops drilling.

The stage has now been set for civil war on the largest scale Ireland has ever known, should a break in the negotiations cause fighting between north and south to begin. Catholics in Belfast have long lived in terror of the day when the Unionist irregulars should be mobilized and considerable immigration southward across the Boyne was expected to follow the mobilizing of the volunteers.

BRIDAL BOOTH FOR COMING BAZAAR

A committee from the Ladies' auxiliary of the Congregational church gave a very enjoyable affair at the home of Mrs. D. D. Kenyon on Ivy street Monday afternoon in the form of a shower for a bridal booth at the bazaar which is to occur early in December.

Dainty articles loved by all brides were donated by about sixty ladies. During the course of the afternoon dainty refreshments of cake and punch were served.

EDITORIALS
BY THE PEOPLE

Editor Press: We are informed that to change the Glendale postoffice to an independent office, it will be necessary to run it for one day without any carriers and with only one clerk to assist the postmaster.

What nonsense! What tom-foolery! Government red tape may designate such an unbusiness-like method. There is always a way to cut red tape.

Suppose the new postmaster had enough common sense to employ the regular number of carriers and clerks the very first day, even if he had to pay that first day's wages out of his own pocket. Such a business-like method would enable the postmaster to more quickly and more efficiently ascertain the volume of business, and that without serious inconvenience to the public.

Such a proceedure might involve the smashing of antiquated precedents, or one might have to stretch a rule a wee bit. Such a display of personal initiative on the part of a government executive might call for special congressional investigation. But the display of initiative would be such a novel one that no commission existing at the present time would find itself empowered to act in the case. A new commission would require the customary months and years before it was ready to report. In the meanwhile, the business of the local office under the direction of a man who had some initiative would be running so smoothly, that the congressional committee would finally report that no serious results had followed the radical departure from precedent.

The rule that a postoffice must first be established as a fourth class office and then raised to higher grade is all very well for an absolutely new office and service. But in such a case as that of Glendale where we have had postal service for years and where the volume of business is already well known, to follow such a rule to the very letter would be child's play.

Let the office be designated a fourth class office in order to comply with the spirit of the rule, but let the business of the office go on as usual without any fool red tape. Let us have more business in government affairs.

Eightieth Birthday Banquet of Henry Johnson at M. E. Church

The banquet hall of the First Methodist Church furnished the setting for the 80th birthday celebration of Henry Johnson who invited one hundred guests to dine with him and participate in the festivities.

Centering the room on a small table from which other tables radiated, was a huge pyramidal birthday cake in four tiers decorated with all the skill of the baker's art. Garlands of flowers festooned its sides, doves white and yellow perched upon its rim and no pains had been spared to make it a thing of beauty. At each corner of the table stood a tall yellow candle socketed in a golden globe, which represented twenty years, an dwhen, later in the evening, the beautiful cake was cut by the honoree and distributed to the guests, it was an elaborate ceremonial which was watched with the greatest interest and with cheering comments by the observers.

Down the long tables at which the guests were seated, with a place card for each, ran a row of twinkling yellow candles, reminders of the far-off days when Henry Johnston was born in a log cabin on the edge of the wilderness in Ogle county, Illinois, and when the only artificial light to be had was shed by a tallow candle or a pine knot.

Bouquets of white chrysanthemums and yellow Mexican poppies, and dinner favors of tulip shaped candy baskets carried out the yellow and white color scheme developed on the rostrum in hue jars and baskets of chrysanthemums, dahlias and marigolds.

At 6:30 guests began to arrive to greet Mr. Johnston and his wife who headed the receiving line and who introduced them to Mr. and Mrs. W. R. C. Reynolds, brother-in-law and sister of the honoree, Mrs. E. U. Emery, and Mrs. A. L. Bryant, nieces of Mrs. Johnston, Mr. Emery and Dr. Bryant, A. W. Tower, toastmaster of the evening, and Mrs. Tower.

In due time guests were instructed to find their places and with the promptness for which the caterers of the First Methodist church are famous, an excellent dinner, prepared by Mrs. C. H. Starkey and her corps of able assistant, was served by pretty young women of the church.

At its conclusion the host arose and addressed his guests in quite a poetic strain, telling how the party came to be, how, as he sat looking out upon the flowers and palm trees and the distant Verdugo hills, the scene faded away and he began to turn the pages of memory. In imagination he retraced the long, long trail that led back to the log cabin where something of tremendous importance to him happened October 16, 1841, which brought the neighbors in to rejoice over the arrival of a pioneer baby. At that time Chicago was a trading post with its fort and a few log and frame houses constituting its settlement. He traced the development of the country and the movement from east to west which kept pushing the frontier further and further toward the setting sun until it stopped on the shores of the Pacific.

It was a very good speech so suggestive of the great formative period of our country which will never come again that the toastmaster declared he envied his host the privilege of living in such times.

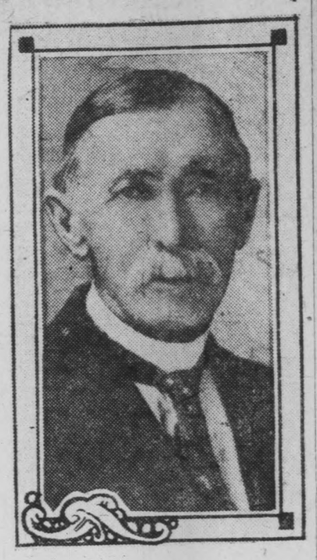
Rev. C. R. Norton followed with a jolly characteristic speech that only Mr. Norton could make in which he told of his first meeting with Mr. Johnston when Glendale was young and he was conducting services in Odd Fellows' hall on Glendale avenue. When he spied Mr. Johnston in the audience he was sure the visitor was a clergyman and promptly invited him to preach. The speaker concluded by assuring the honoree that his friends felt he should take life easy from now on and were therefore presenting him with an arm chair in which to sit in comfort and look at the flowers and palm trees and the Verdugo hills while enjoying the evening of life which his friends hope will last for many years to come.

Mr. Johnston was then invited to seat himself in the chair, the gift of the assembled guests, and with considerable feeling attempted to voice his appreciation of it and of what it would mean to him in the days to come as he thought of this celebration.

Mrs. C. D. Lusby then presented a beautiful bouquet to Mrs. Johnston declaring that but for her tender and efficient care of Henry Johnston he might not be here to entertain his friends. Mrs. Johnston made a charming little speech of acknowledgement, and then Mr. James Johnston, brother of the honoree who closely resembles him, did a clever, amusing after dinner stunt, part recitation and part speech.

Other speeches followed interspersed by old-time songs sung by Miss Isabelle Isgrig, Mrs. Randall playing the accompaniment for "Long, Long Ago" and "Silver Threads Among the Gold." after Miss Isgrig whistled very beautifully, "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny."

Misses Agnes and Bertha Brown gave a violin and saxophone duet for which their mother, Mrs. H. V. Brown played the piano accompaniment.



HENRY JOHNSTON.

Mrs. George J. Phelps who said she came up from the Imperial Valley to celebrate with her old friends, gave a chain of appropriate recitations, some of them medleys, in response to the toast, "A Friend," which very much delighted every listener by their artistic finish.

Dr. A. E. Bryant responded to "Fifty Years an Usher," declaring it couldn't be done unless the man were such an one as Henry Johnston, that he (Mr. Peart) had filled an usher's office many times but never longer than three months without offending a parishoner.

R. M. McGee spoke to the toast, "The Sunday School Scholar," telling of the important niche Mr. Johnston fills in the Sunday school class taught by Mr. McGee and how lost the other scholars would be without him. That he may long continue to be their associate and inspiration is the hope of the class as voiced by Mr. McGee.

The program closed with a last speech of appreciation by the host in which on behalf of himself and Mrs. Johnston he thanked all the friends who had contributed to the making of an evening which would always be a very bright spot in his remembrance.

He was the recipient of many beautiful gifts.

USILTON-VIOHL BUY GOOD CORNER

J. W. Usilton and William Viohl, both well-known Glendale men, have purchased the business lot at the southeast corner of Park avenue and Brand boulevard, the reported consideration being $7500. This is one of the finest vacant corner lots on Brand in the southern part of the city and its sale would seem to indicate that realty buyers are beginning to take notice of that southern section.

It is the intention of the new owners to erect a business block on their holdings at a later date, but up to this time nothing definite along this line has been decided upon.

"THE OATH" BILL AT T. D. & L. THEATRE

"The Oath," which plays today at the T. D. and L. theater, contains a scene which has been hailed by critics as being the most dramatic that has ever been filmed or staged. A series of fast moving, interesting circumstances has involved Hugh Colman in a situation where his conviction for murder is absolutely certain unless he breaks an oath given to his wife when he has secretly married.

A very unique novelty is also on the bill for today. It is Douglas Fairbanks in "Mystery of the Leaping Fish." This is the first picture Fairbanks ever made, and it is also said to be his worst. O course he was probably somewhat different than we are accustomed to seeing him nowadays, as this was his first job in the movies." This program will be shown today only.

To Visit Schools.—In conformity with the policy of Glendale High of allowing every teacher a chance to visit other schools to observe their methods, teachers of the Spanish department, Miss Bessie Field, Mrs. Bessie Stone and Miss Fay McEndree will take a day off in turn, and their work will be distributed among other teachers in their department. Mrs. Dora Gibson and Miss Pansy Sheldon will be away Friday forenoon to study special work in music that is being given in Los Angeles.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

IMITATION VICE

When his liver first got "off," he thought it might be too much coffee, so he quit it like a hero, for no common man was he,
And he took to drinking "Sloppo," advertised as sure to stop, Oh, any person's taste for coffee, howe'er strong the habit be;
Then his stomach threatened trouble and he drank tea steeped from stubble pure and harmless as clear water, so the advertisements said,
And he drank none of the other kind that used to comfort mother, for it hindered the digestion, so his loving wife had read.

In some advertisement poking then his good wife found that smoking was destructive of sound tissue and deranged the appetite,
So he quit it and smoked "Smello," made from corn husks sere and yellow, guaranteed to stop the craving for the weed, and harmless quite;
And as money went to waste so for his chewing, "Bacotasto" (two big plugs for but a nickel) generously she supplied,
Guaranteed an imitation that defied investigation, made from beeswax, glue and licorice and other things beside.

But, alas! Her heart like ice is for his imitation vices have, in curing all his others quite possessed him in their grasp
And he goes about as yellow as a Chink from smoping "Smello," and he cries at night for "Beero" with his last, half-conscious gasp;
He's a slave to Sloppo, Fako, Bacotasto and Non-Snako, and his cravings know no ending and he draws no peaceful breath,
And her heart as cold as ice is, for his imitation vices bear him swiftly down their current to a base, ignoble death!
